Finding calm in the forest

Going for hikes is proven to help with stress and anxiety and is a good way to practice social distancing. Steve Bruno, who took this photo, said he has been taking daily hikes during the coronavirus pandemic. The photo was taken in Algonquin Highlands as Bruno was hiking the trail with his wife Trish Manning and Little Bear, their golden retriever. /Photo by Steve Bruno

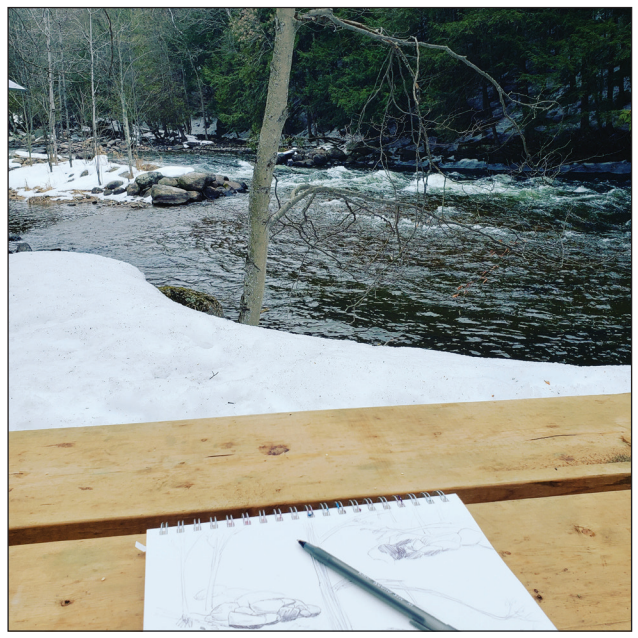
Patrick Bradley writes: "Making maple syrup we were afraid of him touching the boiler and instead he fell in a barrel full of sap."



Lindsay Jowett went on a short hike at the rapids in Minden with a sketch book. She said she sat outside for almost an hour sketching and just experiencing nature. (Recommended TV shows: Brooklyn Nine-Nine and RuPaul's Drag Race on Netflix.)

Wendy Bateman is on her second rug made of old blue jeans. It takes 30 pairs to make a rug.

Janet Sheehey's been "knitting, knitting, knitting" during this time of social distancing.

Vicki Sisson writes: "Planning the spring garden planting. Sorting, ordering, and starting seeds. Something to look forward to!"

Haliburton teams have success at Highland Lassie Bonspiel

The 45th annual Highland Lassie Bonspiel held on Saturday, March 7 was another successful event held at the Haliburton Curling Club. This year, eight out of town teams from Port Perry, Lindsay, Whitby, High Park, York, St. George's and Annandale Curling Clubs were greeted by eight local teams. The committee comprised of Sue Mason, Jackie Bradbury, Wendy Hewson, Ferne Taylor, Linda Boore, Lyn Ritchie, Norma Kennedy, Janet Boyne and Mary Hillaby organized a fantastic and eventful day.

The overall 2020 Highland Lassie winner was a team from Haliburton. Skip, Kim Lewis, vice, Cindy Campbell, second, Candy Robinson, and lead, Aggie Tose, took home the trophy. A team from Port Perry skipped by Chris Acton scored first place honours in her draw. Sandra Duchemin from Haliburton and Mandy Bennett from Whitby finished second in their draws. Settling in third place in their draws were two Haliburton teams skipped by Wanda Stephen and Laraine Forgrave.

Many thanks to our sponsor, Mitch Stephen from TMS Services. Thanks to our servers and bartenders who were very popular and very busy – Garth Krieger, Dave Chevrefils, Glen Smith, Peter Forgrave and Keith Clarkson. Glenn Scott, our drawmaster, was also a huge help.

The success of the bonspiel is the result of many helpful volunteers and individual/business donations. Our ice technicians, John Watson and Mitch Stephen kept the ice in great shape throughout the day.

Many thanks to everyone involved.

BE FireSmart®

In the spring, cured grass dries quickly, ignites easily and can spread out of control quickly. These fires cause property damage and cost money to extinguish. If you light it, you are responsible.

Instead of burning, you can:

- Mow and compost grass.
- Chip and compost brush or use it as mulch.

If you must burn:

- Don't burn when it is windy.
- Light your fire two hours before sunset or later.
- Burn a safe distance from anything that could catch fire.
- Keep your fire small and stay with it until it is out.

Fragrance First

I always choose the edge of things:
It's night that's dull, not gloom
Those boiling clouds, not storm itself
A door, but not the room

A bluff lends broader vistas
They splice big lake and sky
Lone climber then sees size of each
From higher up nearby

A prelude is superior
To fanfare at the end
It's subtle, calm detachment
Which walks me towards a friend

The edge of confrontation
Observer's place to note
If joining in is worthy
Or chance to stay afloat

Dark woods are deep and lovely
See forest for the trees
But skirting without entry
Makes running home a breeze

I'd rather browse a bookshop
Than stick to single tomes
Or dream a million drawings
Ahead of monochromes

I love the edge of bedtime
My fancies can begin
The body stops, but mind explodes
Before sleep-tales set in

I hear a million words each day
But most of them mean nought
I hover on their brim of noise
To simplify all thought

For swimming in some chaos
Commitment to one team
Is folly for the likes of me
From safe sidelines I beam

Peripheral horizons
Help classify my eyes
Blurred edges in my distance
Big picture in disguise

In this together

KATE BUTLER
Special to County Life

AS I WRITE this, life in Haliburton County has changed rapidly in the last week and it's had me thinking a lot about how we connect with one another. With the Haliburton Highlands Museum being closed to visitors at the moment, we've taking aspects of our collection and programming online in ways that would have been impossible 20, let alone 120 years ago. We now live in an era of instant communication, which would astonish past generations of Haliburton County residents. Just think, in the 1860s and 1870s, communication was largely person to person with the post bringing information from outside the community. Letters coming from the other side of the Atlantic might take weeks to arrive, while the reply back could take just as long. Today, we can contact someone on another continent in seconds.

How we share the news has also changed. In the 19th century, newspapers communicated the news of the day as quickly as they could, but newspapers from larger centres didn't always make their way up to this area and our local press was in its infancy. The Echo actually began publishing in 1884, though there were some other local publications even prior to the Echo, helping to spread the news. Sometimes, space permitting, world news would be shared in the local press, but often there was a time delay of days or even weeks as information made its way from location to location. Today, we can know what's going on around the world in an instant!

With all these tools at hand, it's so important to use them, but use them wisely. In this time of social distancing, make sure to reach out to others in whatever way you can. Make those phone calls, send those texts and messages to make sure that those around you are doing all right. With the current 24-hour news cycle, it's easy to feel overwhelmed and anxious, so it's important to take time to look after yourself too. Look for the bright spots, the good news stories and the things that make you smile. Find ways you can safely reach out to help our local businesses during this time, as well as resources that are available that might be of help to you. This might be a time to take up a new hobby or explore an interest and if your interest is the history and heritage of our amazing and resilient community, the Haliburton Highlands Museum has you covered!

Stay safe everyone and look after each other! We're in this together – even when we're apart!

Spring has arrived in the Haliburton Highlands. The forests were flooded with sunshine last weekend for hikers to enjoy. / JENN WATT Staff

Top 10 things that make self isolation more attractive

STEVE GALEA
Humour Columnist

RIGHT NOW, many people are self-isolating. And some are finding this hard to cope with. Being a freelance writer, however, I have been self-isolating since 1996. This means I have a bit of expertise and I can honestly say it's not such a bad thing. Here are my top 10 reasons why:

1. This finally gives you a reason to become an introvert.
2. The realization that you couldn't wear these pajamas at work.
3. Buying kale can now be deemed as "too risky."
4. That last office party.
5. Bathroom time is a little more laid back.
6. You can stick out your tongue at people during phone calls.
7. You wear masks, but on your own terms.
8. You can wear Crocs.
9. You can tell everyone you're working.
10. Your family is a captive audience for your improv set.

The virus pandemic

The entire world has unravelled. Today we travelled to two different towns and three grocery stores before we were able to find a small bag of flour on an otherwise empty shelf. The shelves in this "land of plenty," appear to have been ravished by panicked people. The younger generation refers to it as if everyone is preparing for an immediate zombie apocalypse.

My son called us to say it took him two hours to check out of the local grocery store in his neighbourhood, and the store was completely out of the bottled water he usually relies upon as the tap water in the city smells strongly of chemicals and cannot be trusted to be fresh. My treasured retirement savings has taken a drastic hit. I now wonder if it will sustain me in my elderly years, as I don't have faith in the promises of government and the funds to which we have all been legally obligated to invest in throughout our years of employment.

But tonight I look at the silver lining and how the power of the Universe is setting things right. Families are being held closely together in what is being called quarantined or self-quarantined, affecting their immediate family members. Schools, public buildings, sports events and any gathering of 500 people or more is being cancelled. The government is promising all persons who cannot go to work due to being quarantined will be paid for their time away from work as it is the responsible thing to do for the betterment of society. A blessing indeed and the return to family importance and away from the jet setting, greedy masses society has become.

Today we had to cancel our travel plans and stay at home instead, as Science North in Sudbury has been closed for the March Break. So this afternoon we bought a new board game which we will enjoy with our grandson. This time together will not be spent watching the clock and dashing to be on time here and there. Instead we will spend the days together and find joy in being together.

It's a gift and we are thankful.

OMB hearing planned

Minden zoning by-law passes third reading

The revised zoning by-law for Anson, Hindon and Minden townships has received third and final reading by the municipal council. The final approval came at the close of the March 10 meeting.

The by-law, which enacts numerous amendments to the existing zoning regulations, has been under study for almost a year. The by-law controls building activity and development in the municipality, regulating such items set-backs from roadways, zones for residential, recreational, commercial and industrial purposes, minimum size for certain structures among others.

The passing of the by-law took place after an extended closed meeting, which the council claimed was necessary to discuss township employee wages. The third reading did not appear on either the agenda or the addendum for the meeting.

Recently a number of residents of the municipality had requested that a second public meeting be held to discuss the implications of the amendments. In particular there was concern about the change in zoning for cottages in shoreline areas. Some cottage owners believe that the introduction of a "recreational residential" zoning could mean they will be unable to convert their cottages into permanent residences when they retire.

The minimum frontage for shoreline properties has also been a point of contention in the past with various figures from the present 100 feet up to 200 feet being suggested as alternatives.

The delineation of a hazard land zone through the Village of Minden has also caused some controversy with Ministry of Natural Resources planning personnel claiming they would file formal objections to the by-law if the potential for flooding in the area was not recognized.

Objections

Having given the by-law final reading, the document will now be forwarded to the Ontario Municipal Board. A public hearing will then be arranged at which time ratepayers and others with objections to the contents of the document can present their points of view.

in the municipality, giving everyone an opportunity to examine the document carefully before it receives final approval from the Ontario government.

That was one reason, according to municipal clerk Elinor Burke, for the speedy passage of third reading. She pointed out that under the grant structure of the Ministry of Housing, the municipality has until early April to mail a copy of the by-law to each ratepayer. If the township missed the deadline, it could jeopardize the grants the housing ministry has promised to assist with the preparation of the document.

The deadline for circulating the by-law has been extended once already.

The document has been prepared by the municipality in consultation with planners from the consulting engineer firm of Proctor and Redfern.

The Minden arena was filled with an energetic group of costumed skaters Sunday. For more pictures of the day's show, see page 8.

Browndale announces plans for wilderness camping area

Browndale Ontario, the province-wide organization of residential youth treatment centres, is planning to introduce wilderness camping on a 600 acre site north of Minden area.

Plans for the project, which is to be developed on property straddling the Vankoughnet Road at the Queen's Line, were formally approved by the Anson, Hindon and Minden municipal council at the March 10 meeting.

Browndale currently operates several group homes in the Minden area. The wilderness camping program will be a continuation of a similar program which has been formerly located on the Berry line in Stanhope township.

Don Cameron, property manager for Browndale's Toronto office, and Bill Payne of Wrightman Realty presented the proposals for the project at the March 10 meeting of Minden council. Payne told council that the Browndale group is seeking council's "blessing" for the plan before purchasing the acreage.

The 600 acre property is currently owned by Wally and Joan Bunn of Minden. Payne said following the meeting that the sale will most likely be completed by the end of March.

Cameron told council that the wilderness camping area, once it is fully developed, will draw on the central and eastern regions of Browndale's current operations. According to Cameron, the program will bring between 400 and 600 youths and adults to the area.

Cameron estimated that 160 youths and the same number of staff members will use the property once it is in full operation. He told councillors that parents visiting their children at the site will bring the total number of people using the property to roughly 600 in peak periods.

The proposed site for the camp is currently zoned for

Marta Vanderwal gives encouragement to a member of the ACLD in the PineStone Inn pool.

Pool fun also a learning experience

Even though it may be cold and tranquil in surrounding woods, any Thursday afternoon from 4:15 until 5:00 the PineStone Inn rings with the shouts and splashes of children in the pool downstairs. All the activity is part of the swimming program held each week at the resort by the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities (ACLD).

Thanks to the generosity of the PineStone, the association has been able to provide swimming instruction for its members for the past three months. Eleven Minden children from grades 1 to 8 have taken the opportunity to be coached in a range of activities, from diving and treading water to the front crawl, breast stroke, side stroke and elementary back stroke.

The ACLD was founded four years ago by Mrs. Ernice Warder, a special education teacher at the Archie Stouffer School in Minden. She has been instrumental in setting up the Thursday swimming sessions, and several other programs also sponsored by the ACLD.

Rob Dennys, an instructor with Browndale Ontario in Haliburton County, has been conducting the swimming program for the ACLD on a volunteer basis for several years. The Thursday sessions operate on a one-to-one basis, one adult working with each child. The majority of participants are teachers from Minden and Haliburton schools, and several parents of participating children also take part.

Dennys is pleased with the results of the program. Walking around the pool with clip board in hand, he keeps a careful eye on the children's
